(54) Title: COMPUTER NAVIGATION

(57) Abstract: An electronic device (10) comprises a display (12) for displaying data stored on said electronic device (10); input means (16); sensing means (20) for sensing the three-dimensional position of the input means (16) relative to said device (10); and control means for controlling the data displayed on said display (12) in dependence on the three-dimensional position of the input means (16) relative to said device (10). The input means (16) includes a source of electromagnetic radiation for directing an infrared conical beam onto the display (12). The sensing means (20) can sense the elliptical eccentricity of the electromagnetic radiation incident on the display (12) to determine the angle at which it strikes the display (12), and can sense the area of the electromagnetic radiation incident on the display (12) to determine the distance of the input means (16) from the display (12).

* Special categories of cited documents:

"A" document defining the general state of the art which is not considered to be of particular relevance

"E" earlier document but published on or after the International filing date

"L" document which may throw doubts on priority claim(s) or which is cited to establish the publication date of another citation or other special reason (as specified)

"O" document referring to an oral disclosure, use, exhibition or other means

"P" document published prior to the International filing date but later than the priority date claimed

"T" later document published after the international filing date or priority date and not in conflict with the application but cited to understand the principle or theory underlying the invention

"X" document of particular relevance; the claimed invention cannot be considered novel or cannot be considered to involve an inventive step when the document is taken alone

"Y" document of particular relevance; the claimed invention cannot be considered to involve an inventive step when the document is combined with one or more other such documents, such combination being obvious to a person skilled in the art.

"S" document member of the same patent family
